

Gastroenterology & Hepatology

Mayo Clinic in Minnesota

Mayo Clinic Gastroenterology and Hepatology (GIH) is distinguished by its subspecialty care, breadth and depth of expertise, and unique patient services.

CLINICAL TRIALS

Mayo Clinic physician-scientists find better ways to prevent, diagnose and treat GIH conditions.

A key goal of this work is addressing unmet patient needs by moving discoveries from the research lab to the clinic as quickly and safely as possible.

GIH condition clinical trials in Minnesota

YOUTUBE CHANNELS

Explore Gastroenterology and Hepatology content on Mayo Clinic's YouTube channels to meet the specialists, stay updated on the latest in the field, and access a wealth of educational content, including board reviews, fellowship insights and valuable patient information.

Gastroenterology and Hepatology — YouTube
Mayo Clinic — YouTube

CONTINUING EDUCATION COURSES

In person and online.

Mayo Clinic School of Continuous Professional Development

GASTROENTEROLOGY AND HEPATOLOGY PRACTICE OVERVIEW

To learn more about Mayo Clinic Gastroenterology and Hepatology's specialized care, tests and procedures, and gastroenterologists and hepatologists, please visit

Gastroenterology and Hepatology in Rochester, Minnesota

Or scan the QR codes.

GI Links

GI Practice Overview

REFER A PATIENT

For information or to refer a patient, please contact Mayo Clinic Referring Physician Services:

Arizona: 866-629-6362

Florida: 800-634-1417

Minnesota: 800-533-1564

Or visit mayoclinic.org/medical-professionals to refer a patient or access resources online, including clinical trials, continuing medical education, Grand Rounds, and scientific articles and videos.

